Why should you take part?

We are returning for our second event on Thursday 16th September 2021, following the successful event in February 2020. For 2021 we have partnered with the Lincolnshire Chamber of Commerce to make it bigger and better, increasing the reach of the event and attracting new prospective delegates to attend! 2020 had over 40 exhibitors from across the industry, and hundreds of delegates visiting on the day to look around, network and listen to a full talks programme. 2021's is already exceeding this and will be double the size!

2021's event will showcase four zones; Heritage, Construction, Property Services and Adaption to Climate Change, where industry professionals will be exhibiting throughout the day for you to connect and network with. Why not be one of the exhibitors from as little as £175 + VAT.

The main aim is to connect businesses together within these industries, to ensure that they are accessible to businesses of all sizes and capacity. Prices are below the average price to exhibit at an event such as this and we are hoping to draw in attendees from across the East Midlands area by working with some key partners and influencers in the industry.

Who are Archaeological Project Services?

Archaeological Project Services (APS) are a long established commercial archaeological practice offering a comprehensive range of consultancy and fieldwork services. Based in Heckington, Lincolnshire, we serve clients across the construction and development industries, public bodies and private individuals throughout the county. APS offer cost-effective, tailor made solutions to all archaeological and cultural heritage needs in the planning and development processes. Our highly experienced project management team will respond quickly to find the right solution for your project, from initial planning, through site investigation to mitigation and report publication.

Who are Heritage Lincolnshire?

Heritage Lincolnshire are a long established charitable organisation dedicated to preserving and developing historic buildings as well as engaging and benefitting the wider communities around them. We deliver a range of expert heritage consultancy services to the public and private sectors, communities and individuals throughout Lincolnshire and the wider East Midlands. Heritage Lincolnshire have a breadth of experience in developing successful funding bids for conservation projects, producing options appraisals and viability studies, in addition to providing effective and sustainable conservation plans. We also offer a range of services to enable you to engage and consult communities and the wider public, including activity statements and plans, national curriculum linked education and archaeology clubs for schools, as well as traditional building skills training. Our highly experienced project management team can provide you with bespoke support and services to fulfil the specific needs and requirements of your project.

Who are the Lincolnshire Chamber of Commerce?

The Lincolnshire Chamber of Commerce is a not-for-profit membership organisation supporting around 1,000 local businesses to come together, make connections, share knowledge and grow. We do this through a variety of networking opportunities, PR and marketing support, signposting and connection opportunities and much more.

Our members are made up of every size and sector of business, from start-ups to large and established businesses. We operate across professional services, food, drink and hospitality to manufacturing, construction and engineering.

Why are we holding this Exhibition?

With the current economic climate affecting the Construction industry and the uncertainty of Brexit and now post-Covid, we wanted to bring businesses together in the East Midlands area to facilitate collaborative working, using local services and like-minded business people. Being a small county-wide charity, we have some great assets and a strong, highly qualified and dedicated team. However this doesn't always reflect in our marketing of the company due to budget constraints. It does not mean that we are unable to do the job, or less skilled, purely that we cannot shout about what we do as loudly as others. How many other businesses are in the same position? We want to put as many businesses as possible on a level playing field, to showcase what their qualities and services are, and how we can all work together.
